

Candice Mowbray Biography <250

Regarded for her beautiful tone and lyrical playing, Maryland-based classical guitarist Candice Mowbray shares the expressive and communicative qualities of her playing through programs of modern and classic works. From playful acrobatics in works by French guitar virtuoso Ida Presti to the elegance and solemnity of Fernando Sor's Fantaisie élégiaque, listeners enjoy her artful programming and thoughtful interpretations.

Appearing as a soloist, chamber musician and guest lecturer, Mowbray has been a featured artist for festivals and concerts series in Philadelphia, Toronto, Washington DC, Baltimore and Los Angeles. She has performed with the Washington National Opera at the Kennedy Center, Maryland Symphony Orchestra, National String Symphonia and Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra of Greater Washington. Her recent solo CD, Reverie, has been featured on radio shows such as In Tune (BBC Radio 3), The Intimate Guitar (Dayton, OH), G-Strings with Tom Cole (Washington D.C.) and Musica Mundi (Boulder, CO). Classical Guitar Magazine called the release "A revelation!" and one of the Top 10 CD picks of the year.

Mowbray earned the Doctorate of Musical Arts in Classical Guitar Performance from Shenandoah Conservatory in Virginia and has taught courses in music and appreciation of the broader humanities at Shenandoah Conservatory, Shepherd University and several other colleges and schools in the mid-Atlantic region. She is also active in music research and giving talks about music, which have been repeatedly commended for being engaging and insightful.

www.candicemowbray.com

Brief Biography <100

Regarded for her beautiful tone and lyricism, classical guitarist Candice Mowbray shares the expressive and communicative qualities of her playing through Impressionistic, contemporary and classic works. Appearing as a soloist, chamber musician and guest lecturer, she has been a featured artist for festivals and concerts series in Philadelphia, Toronto, Washington DC, Baltimore and Los Angeles. She earned the Doctorate of Musical Arts in classical guitar performance from Shenandoah Conservatory and her recent CD, Reverie, has been featured on BBC Radio 3 and Classical Guitar Magazine.